Q: Can you name some of the major business units currently working at the Lee Gardens office?

G (Genius Wong): Tata Communications currently operates in over 240 countries and territories worldwide. We have 44 data centres across the globe, covering over 1 million square feet of co-location space. We also provide a diverse array of data centre, as well as hosting and managed services in Hong Kong. Our multinational clients expect a uniform customer experience across geographies whether it is from our headquarters in Mumbai or here, in Hong Kong. We're proud that we're able to seamlessly fulfil these requirements at the tech-friendly environment we've found at Lee Gardens.

Q: What attracted Tata Communications to move to Lee Gardens Offices?

G: Lee Gardens Offices is a leading IT Hub in Hong Kong. Moving here puts us in close proximity to some of the leading names in tech. Having a community of peers around us helps us stay plugged into the local tech scene – and knowing is half the battle won as we strive to improve our customer experience. The Lee Gardens area is also all about connectivity, combining premium office space with a high-efficiency design. This maximises our ability to provide common areas for our staff to mingle and generate ideas. All of these factors help boost staff productivity and creativity.

Q: How does the move to Lee Gardens Offices help to attract and retain top talents?

G: Our location in one of Hong Kong's most recognisable addresses is definitely a draw. Knowing that they will be working in a popular neighbourhood among leading tech companies gives prospective talents an incentive to join us. The area offers an exciting and diverse range of extracurricular options, from dining to entertainment. With all these world-class amenities right outside our doorstep, our staff have a lot to inspire them in and outside of work.
